TOO MUCH FOR THE COURTS.

THE THREE PARTS OF GENERAL SES-SIONS ADJOURNED.

No Cases Tried-The Jurers and Court Of. cinis Held Experience Meetings as to How They Get Through the bnow.

The Longoberdi trial was to have been resumed before Recorder Emyth in the General Sessions yesterday for the murder of young Barrott on Oct, 16, but it was pestroned on account of the weather. Longovardi was brought to the bar. His Italian lawyer, who sat smiling beside him, was called to his feet by Recorder Smyth, who said:

Your associate. Judge Curtis, has sent me word by telegraph that he was delayed at home by the extremely inclement weather. I experienced considerable difficulty myself in getting here, but I managed to do so, however, but how I can scarcely tell myself. Unless you object to an adjournment. I will set down the trial for Tuesday, at 11 A. M. What has the District

Attorney to say?"
District Attorney Fellows said: "After a four hours' struggle, your Honor, I have managed to get here from my home on Washington Heights. It will be a public convenience to postpone. I see the jury is not all here."

It was 11:25 o'clock when the foreman of the jury, J. Anker of Fifty-sighth street and Second avenue, arrived. He said he started from his home shortly after 7% A. M. to come directly to the court room. He said in conversation after court adjourned that he stood on the Second avenue elevated railroad platform nearest to his house for an hour and a half while train after train passed without stopping. Then he walked to a station on the Third avenue elevated road. The cars were not running and he walked back to Second avenue and boarded a surface car. At Filty-fourth street the car was stopped and the driver unhooked the horses, saying that a general order had been sent out to leave all cars where they stood and drive the horses to the stables. Then Mr. Anker boarded a Second avenue clevated car, and after frequent stops between stations got as far as Canal street, where passengers were ordered out of the cars because cars could go no further south. From Canal street Mr. Anker walked to the General Sessions building.

Juror Isaac Ninan, who arrived shortly after the foreman, said that he started from his residence, 613 Tenth avenue, between Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets, before 9 o'clook. He changed cars on Broadway five times, and reached Fourieenth street when so much snow covered the track that at the curve the car stuck fast and could not be moved. Thence Mr. Ninan walked to Houston street, when he espied a Central Park sleigh and made for it. When he got on he paid the conductor $1$ for a ride to Chambers street. At Chambers street there was a big snow drift, and Mr. Ninan, who has a big head but a small body, stuck fast in a drift, and had to be litted out by two good Samaritans.

and get out his own team. He came down in his sleigh clad in his memorable fur coat. Chief Clerk Conrad N. Smyth started early, but got caught on the Sixth avenue elevated at Twelfth street, and had to get down by a ladder which the firemen brought. He got to court very late. Assistant Clerk Crocheron was snowed up in the annaxed district. Fortunately several of the assistants lived near by, and Justice White's personal clerk. Bernard F. Maione, managed to get down from Harlem, and the tough job of preparing the papers was got through with.

Meanwhile the prisoners in the pen, who had been confined from Sunday afternoon without anything to eat, were suffering. A poor colored woman, who was complainant against another who had scadded her, sat in agony on a bench. Justice Waite got into court at 3 P. M. and disposed of the saventy prisoners in as many minutes. He tempered justice with mercy, and took into consideration the fact that the accused had been already confined, so that there was little hardship from the delay.

One unfortunate liquor dealer who had given bonds for violation of the Excise law got caught on the elevated road. He attempted to get down a ladder, and fell and broke his leg.

MORE AFFIDAVITS WANTED.

Lawyer Kellery After More Evidence in the Aqueduct Injunction Case.

Judge Morgan J. O'Brien faced a dishevelled array of lawyers' clerks in Supreme Court Chambers at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. His Honor had beaten the storm from his Fifth avenue house and was as punctual as if it were June morning: but the clerks were there to explain that their employers had not turned up at their respective offices. Judge O'Brien explain that their employers had not turned up at their respective offices. Judge O'Brien therefore adjourned the entire calendar to half past 11, at which time several counsel were on its and it in his cases out of ten, however, only see aide was represented.

Taxpayer Ebling's suit for an injunction to restrain the Aqueduct Commissioners from awarding a million-dollar contract to O'Brien & Clark was represented by Arthur Smith, Lawyer L. Laflin Kellong's partner. Assistant Corporation Counsel Townsend was present for the Commissioners. Mr. Townsend stated that Referes Davenport had not made his report of the examination of Secretary Sheehan, and that the defence would like until Thursday to prepare an answer to it whenever in should arrive. Mr. Smith objected to Thursday because on that day his partner would be engaged in another matter. Wednesday was therefore set for the arguments. Mr. Smith asked for nermission to file additional affidavits, although the time allowed for such action had expired on Saturday last. Judge O'Brien did not want to grant a motion of this kind. He set that his recent service in the office of the Corporation Counsel should debar him from taking any decisive action.

"I have spoken with Judge Barrett." he said, and he will be willing to hear your motions and arguments."

Counsel Townsend said that he should object to the preparation of any mere affidavits, but, he added to Mr. Smith, "it you want to ask Judge Barrett for permission to extend your time, no ahead,"

When Mr. Smith left the Court House he had not decided whether or not to apply for permission to the additional affidavits.

Bend from a Seep ng Potton.

Mrs. Isabella Stuart looked after things for George W. Richardson, a bachelor, in his flat, 200 West Thirty-first street. She was up when became home on Sunday sight, and they sat up late, the left her in the dislag reem readind, and went to had. When he zet up resterday mersing the found from the dislag ream lead. There was first on her lips, and as the had long been in the inabit of taking morphise to make her sleep, he concluded that she had laken an overdosa. Richardson reported the sac at the Thirty-seventh street police station, and pending the Coroner's examination, a policeman was put in charge of the body. Mrs. Stuart came from New Jersey several years ago. She was 25 years old. PROGRESS OF THE STRIKE.

THE PARTY

Mr. Arthur Hopeful that the Strike will be Confined to the Burilagton-The Wabash Receiver's Long Answer to the Petition. CHICAGO, March 12 .- The third week of the Burlington strike opened this morning, and, according to Chief Arthur, the men are as buoyant and as sanguine of ultimate success as ever. All interest now points to the resump-tion of the legal proceedings in the United States Court, and the ontcome is awaited with Impatience both by the railroad officials and the representatives of the Brotherhood.

Mr. Arthur repeated this morning that no se-tion looking to a tie-up of any of the Eastern railroads would be taken until after Judge Greslam had decided the Wabash case, Even then he was hopeful that the strike would be confined to the Burilington, although he had absolutely no control over the various Grievance Committees, with whom rest the power to call out the men. These committees, repre senting the Nickel Plate, Louisville, New Albany and Chicago, Grand Trunk, Michigan Central, Chicago and Atlantic, and Baltimore and Onio, will be in here by to-night, and will take up the question of carrying "Q" freight as soon as the text of the Court's decision is before them. The striking men are jubitant over the renewed endorsements from their brethren in New York and other cities, as well as over the action of the men at the St. Louis end in ceasing to handle Burlington freight last night. They assert that this is a powerful lever in their favor.

Messrs, Stevens and Hanahan have issued an encouraging circular to the men to-day, reminding them that the strike opened just two weeks ago this morning commending their firmness, and asking them to hold stendy. When the petition of the Burlington came up belore Judge Gresham to-day the road pre-sented a number of affidavits showing that the Wabash had refused to handle its freight, after which the answer of the Wabash to the peti-

Burlington and Quiney ill go on upon the same roads of that system will go on upon the same terms and conditions as those upon which similar business is done by this road with other connecting railroads."

This order, the answer says, has been in full force since its issuance, and will be continued nclusion the Wabash denies having had any business transactions or communications from P. M. Arthur or anyono representing him, and prays that the petition be dismissed at pe-titioner's cost.

PRISONED IN A WRECKED CAR. Mrs. Ball Dangerously Hurt in a Crash at Dabbs Ferry.

Dobbs Ferry, March 12 .- An accident occurred here at 6% o'clock this morning on the New York Central Railroad. The wind caught up the snow and dashed it against the cab windows of locomotives, forcing the engineers to run slowly, and delaying all ratiroad traffic. When, therefore, the first Atlantic Chicago express reached Dobbs Ferry, it was late. The train stopped for water, and the conductor, acting, it is said, according to the custom observed while stopping at water stations, did not send back a brakeman to warn trains that might follow. The result was that, while the first Atlantic express was at Dobbs Ferry, the second Atlantic, or Northwestern express came along and dashed into the Chicago train. The drifting snow that filled the air prevented the engineer of the second train from seeing any distance ahead. When he did observe the train in advance it was too late to stop his engine. The locomotive struck the rear sleeping car Aberdeen of the first train with such force that the pilot, smoke stack, and boiler were buried Aberdeen of the first train with such force that the pilot, smoke stack, and boiler were buried deep in the car, knocking the platform into splinters, destroying the vestibule, and breaking up several of the berths nearest the end. The concussion was so sharp that the tender of the locomotive was raised from the track and thrust half way through the baguage car. The ground was strewn with splinters, please of wearing apparel, and the personal effects of the passengers.

In the sleeping coach Aberdeen, among other persons, was Mrs. Ball of California, who was on her way to New York, whence she was to go to Liverpool. When the engine broke into the end of the sleeper this lady was near enough to the end of the sleeper this lady was near enough to the end of the sleeper this lady was near enough to the end of a car of the moment, and agonized those who had clambered out of the wreek. A dozen willing hands soon gave assistance, and an opening in the car was made wider by the use of axes. Mrs. Ball was finally extricated and conveyed to Peterman's liotel. Drs. linabrouck, Judson, and Dunworthy attended her, and they lear she has received sovere injuries. Another person who was badly hurt was an Anetralian. He was much cut about the head, and had to be conveyed to the same hotel. He refused for some reason to give his name, several other cassengers received brunces and cuts, but they went to New York by the next train. It was some time before all of the passengers could be got out of the wrecked cars, and those who ware forced to remain imprisoned for a while were chilled by the cold and the show that beat in at the shattered windows.

The conductor of the train was somewhat injured about the head, but the engineer, fireman, and expression as escaped injury. None of the trainmen could be personaded to talk about the matter, though the responsibility seems to rest with the men of the first rain. Since it is not used for the Chicago express to take water at Dobbs Ferry, and since it was obliged to do so, it would appea

MR. SULLY WON'T RESIGN. He Sava If the Richmond Terminal Wanted

For several weeks Wall street men have talked about the possible retirement of Mr. Alfred Sully as President of the Richmond Terminal Company. It has been authoritatively declared by members of the Executive Committee of the company that Mr. Sully was reflected to the Presidency on the condition that he would resign the office on March 1 Early in February Mr. John H. Inman and two other members of the committee asked Mr Sully for his resignation. It is declared that Mr. Sully practically snapped his fingers at the request. He then went off to Florida for rest and recreation. In his absence the stories about Mr. Sully's retirement became more numerous and positive. A member of the Executive Committee told a Sun reporter of the demand made upon Mr. Sully to resign, but added that Mr. Sully couldn't be forced out of the place until January next. He further said that unless the right man to succeed Mr. Sully was found the demand for Mr. Sully's resignation would not be pressed. Mr. Sully a returned from Florida on Saturday night. He says he has not fully recovered from the sickness that sent blim to Florida. Speaking of the sattements that he made the conditional agreement that if he was redirected to the Presidency of the company ho would resign on March I, he yesterday authorized the following statement:

"It is all nonsense about my having made an agreement to tender my resignation on March I, My absence and sickness 1,000 miles from New York have been alten advantage of to circulate these ridiculous stories by people interested in manipulating the stock market.

"I have seen the statement that I had procured the passage of a bill by the Virginia Legislature retaining the pre-ent directors in office for two years. This is not true. I have had nothing to do with that bill. If actually passed and signed, it has been done secretly, and would be of no legal validity. If it were I would immediately call a meeting of the stockholders to authorize me to organize a new Terminal Company in some other State like South tive. A member of the Executive Committee would immediately call a meeting of the stock-holders to authorize me to organize a new Torminal Company in some other State, like South Carolina, where the general law would grant all powers now possessed by the Terminal Company, and simply transfer the home of the Terminal Company and simply transfer the home of the Terminal Company from Virginia to such other State. No such trick as this will be played on the Terminal stockholders so long as I am President of that company."

THEIR WEDDING DAY.

Of All the Days Are in the Year How Was Yesterday to Begin a Hourymoon! The blizzard was not cold enough to prevent two loving hearts from being joined in matrimony at the City Hall. A Holland widower and a Russian widow tramped through the snow drifts, and on meeting Master of Ceremonies Dick Fitzgerald asked where they could get married. Mr. Fitzgerald obligingly steered them into the presonce of Judge Browne of the City Court, The woman, whose name is Anna Wenzlowski, aged 29. is short and plump, with ruddy cheeks. She was a picture of perfect health. The light shawl thrown over her broad shoulders was covered with snow, which she shook off with a laugh, and then shook out the snow from her skirts. Her companion's name is Frantz Stumberger, a sturdy laborer, aged 45, and the couple have been boarding at 77 Washington street, where their courtship took place. Frantz works in a factory, and as he had only one day's leave of absence, and must improve the golden opportunity, it was decided that the storm should not interfere with the ceremony. Frantz had seen many a tough Holland winter, and Anna had experiened the terrors of Russian snows, so they were not frightened even by New York's big blow. The couple clasped hands while Judge Browne performed the ceremony, and Clerk Charles Faul acted as interpreter. Bride and groom embraced each other with enthusiasm, and at once made a break for the street. Opposite the City Hail the snow drifts were two and three fivet high. With a jolly laugh, the bride ran through the despest banks regardless of her new black stockings. The groom was a good second for awhile, but at Broadway the bride was several rods ahead. from her skirts. Her companion's name is

Principal Patterson is Investigating Miss

Carty's Criticisms. The letter of Miss Christine Carty, a pupil of the Central Grammar School in Brooklyn. to Father Donohue, charging that one of the teachers had introduced reflections upon the Catholic religion in the study of English history, has caused considerable discussion in that city. President Hendrix of the Board of Education said yesterday that the matter was now in the hands of the committee of the school, and he had no doubt an investigation would be made, so as to test the accuracy of would be made, so as to test the accuracy of Miss Carly's allegation. Mr. Patterson. the principal of Central Grammar School, said:

"There is not the slightest cause for excitement in this matter. I do not doubt that this young lady has been perfectly honest in the expression of her views, but there are 400 other punils and no other complaint has been made. I think she must have been mistaken in saying that those topics of which she complained were from Magee's History, because I do not believe that that book is used at all in the school, even as a book of reference, and the teachers have positive instructions to use no other text books than those furnished by the Board of Education. I will theroughly investigate the matter, and if there are any causes for Miss Carty's complaint they will be removed."

As to the Irish Fing on the City Hall. It was said yesterday on authority that the Aldermen have no authority to control the flags on the City Hall, so that even if the Board of Aldermen should unanimously pass a resolution directing the raising of the Irish flag on the City Hall, their resolution would be inoperative without the consent of the Mayor. The Mayor has ten days to consider it, and by that time the occasion will have passed, so that there would be no use for the Aderman to pass it over his veto. Adderman Divver proposes to call the year and may, and has no lear that anyheigh will speak against it. It was rumored yetserday, that the Aderman will not get his resolution through without consultant. resolution through without opposition.

The Rochester Post-Express prints this:

"I suppose you have heard of the new apparatus introduced by some one in Yaic College to improve the canacity of the young men of that venerable institution in the art of 'getting there' when the object of their ambition is to reach a base ahead of the ball," said an admirer of the national game to another this morning, after they had exchanged ligures on the vote for constable in their respective wards." If you refer to the 'rig' made of velvet carpet to be set four inches above the ground, and along which the student is expected to project himself with all the speed and abandon of a 'limited' toboggan, then I have beard of it. But why do you ask? Have you something better calculated to forward the vaulting ambition of the aspirant for honors on the diamond?"

"Have I? Well, you are a friend of mine who will not envy me my good fortune, but rather rejoice to hear that I have struck an idea that must bring me an income that will raise my commercial standing above the bolling point. The fact is that I have just perfected an apparatus for stealing bases that is simply perfection. It introduces a new element of interest into the national game, and I look to see it introduced not only on every ball ground where the game is played by professionals, but on every vacant lot from Malne to California where urchins urge the flying aphere. You can see that if my calculations are right I will have my hands will of business and my pockets full of money next summer. The apparatus consists of a light but strong frame to be worn in front, just as the body protector is. It carries four wheels, somewhat like those on roller skates, set on two axies that cross the body horizontally. Or perhaps I would set one axies that chose on roller skates, set on two axies that cross the body horizontally. Or perhaps I would set one on axie the beast number will have such an advantage in sliding friction tegins to tell on him at one, and with it must inevitably win the game? You're skenical I see, but
